He starts off with an introduction to the horticulture industry, discussing the basics of production, marketing, and horticultural services. Jozwik explains the fundamentals of growing woody ornamentals both outdoors and in greenhouses, and of growing perennial plants outdoors. He also discusses the retail horticulture business (flower and plant stores) and specialty businesses, such as greenhouse vegetable production, herb production and marketing, mail-order horticulture, interior and exterior landscaping, plant-care services, and turf and tree care. The book's final section focuses on developing a plan, selling at a profit, financing a new business, and--if all goes well--coping with success.
