A dozen crayons, each being true to their respective colors, talk to a little girl as she draws pictures. Ages 4-7. (May)

Copyright 1999 Reed Business Information, Inc.

From School Library Journal

PreSchool-Grade 1?If crayons could talk, what would they say, and how would they say it? Clever cartoons and rhymes have 12 crayons shouting, hooting, asking, and roaring. "Silver toots, 'Grand,/Marching band' " and "Green yells, 'Fun!/Watch me run.' " While the action is child-appealing and tickles the funny bone, the gouache, acrylic, and crayon drawings are muted rather than crayon-bright. Children will enjoy the book nonetheless, and it's a perfect vehicle for language and art activities. Be sure to have Mary O'Neill's Hailstones and Halibut Bones (Doubleday, 1989) available for those who want more in a similar vein.?Virginia Opocensky, formerly at Lincoln City Libraries, NE

From Booklist

Ages 4^6. "Talk. Talk. My crayons talk. Yackity. Clackity. Talk. Talk. Talk. / Purple shouts, / `Yum! Bubble gum./ Brown sings, `Play, / Mud-pie day.'" Every crayon in the box has something to say in this colorful picture book. The sounds bounce along, quick and rhythmic, in the upbeat rhyming text. With just a few words on each page, the exuberant illustrations create a special world, using paint, pencil, and, yes, crayons to show the narrator as she takes off in flights of fancy inspired by her colorful pals. Great fun to read aloud, this imaginative picture book is a natural lead-in to creative drawing and language activities, as long as you don't regard art period as "quiet time." Carolyn Phelan
