About the Author

Dr. Sergio William Sedas is a Best Selling author and international high-human-potential trainer. He uses intentional possibility to cause positive transformation in life, communities, and organizations.

Funded by NASA, U.S. Air Force, National Science Foundation, and CONACYT, Dr. Sedas received two Master's and a PhD in robotics from Carnegie Mellon University. There he worked on numerous initiatives including DANTE, the first robot in history to enter a live volcano in Antarctica.

He ventured into México in a quest to improve education, manufacturing, and quality of life. He held a number of high management positions at Phillips, Motoman, and Techmatec and founded companies to develop state-of-the-art robot and vision systems for the automotive industry. He is a well-known author of numerous hi-tech innovations that resulted in millions of dollars of savings.

His passion for education led him to Tecnológico de Monterrey, one of the leading universities in México. He was the Head of the Mechatronics academic program and Director of Strategic Programs where he launched initiatives that inspire freshman into active learning.

His constant commitment to the betterment of life won him the recognition of Pittsburgh AIDE (Alliance for Innovative Development and Education) for his contribution to robotic technology and education in México.

For over twenty years, Sergio has studied and engaged in possibility and cognitive science to create engagement, intrinsic motivation, creativity, learning, increased self-confidence, and resiliency in students, adults, and organizations. His work in learning through understanding and possibility influenced the design of a national program to develop self-confidence, resilience, and passion in first-year undergraduate students.

He has been a keynote speaker and trainer for corporations, governments, TEDx, universities, and nonprofit organizations seeking to use the power of possibility.
